CARUSO? WHY, CERTAINLY!

Tenor Brings 15 Pounds Less, Also a New Score, and Says He's the Only One That Wasn't Seasick.

The Noah's Ark of the Metropolitan Opera Company in the form of the North German Lloyd steamship Kaiser Wilhelm II. arrived yesterday, bringing in its cabins one of the largest lists of operation stars that ever entrusted themselves to ercy of a November passage.

On board were Enrico Caruso, Emmy Destinn, Jacques Arlus, Carl Braun, Dinh Gilly, Adamo Didur, Karl Jorn and Angelo Bada, Mr. Caruso was looking unusually fit, and it was no surprise when he said he had lost fifteen pounds. He asserted he did it by drinking water instead of wine and taking the baths at Salsmaggore.

The tenor brought with him a part of the score of a comic opera which he has written to the book of Elbert Hubbard Fraulein Hessel ihre altere Halbschw and the lyrics of Earl Carroll. It is at present entitled "Salamagundi," when produced in New York, as Mr. Caruso hopes it will be, it will probably bear another name. Mr. Carroll met the tenor at the dock and arranged for a conference with Mr. Hubbard about the opera.

A Fine Performance of "The Pillars of Society."

A special performance of Ibsen's "Die Stuetzen der Gesellschaft" ("The Pillars of Society") was given last night at the Irving Place Theatre, Director Christians thus putting again under obligation the which appreciate the acceptable presentation of the masterpieces of serious modern drama. "The Pillars of So ciety" has not been given here for many years, which is a pity, since it is not only admirable in form and workmanship, but lacks entirely the moroseness which in many Ibsen pieces repels the average auditor. The picture of Bernick's prosper ity finally becoming intolerable because built upon a series of lies is vivid and moving, and there is no morbidity either n 1 * : characters or motive.

The Irving Place Theatre has a company which can do full justice to Ibsen. and a more satisfactory all-around performance than that of last night could hardly be desired. An especial word of trying in vain to live out the lies on which he had grounded his success; to Mr. Stoeckel as Johann, Mr. Holznagel as the shipwright Auler, and Miss Mayer us the wholesome and spirited Fraülein

Theatre Leon Poirier. [By Cable to The Tribune.]

Paris, Nov. 12 .- "Le Veau d'Or" "The Golden Calf"), a three-act comedy by Lucien Gleize, produced tonight at the Théatre Léon Poirier, is a cruel but highly amusing satire on the career of the late multi-millionaire Chauchard, who recently bequeathed his art collections, including Millets and Michael Angelos, to the Louvre Museum. In the av. when an obsequious flatterer tells Pilar-Durand that the nineteenth century produced three great men, Napoleon, Pasteur and Pilar-Durand, the swelled-headed Pilar-Durand remarks: "Oh, quite so; but I

A young and ambitious German

Israelite, a commercial traveller, asks Pilar for the hand of his pretty cousin, Suzanne, and Pilar replies that he can only permit his ward to marry a man the examination unless he can show that who is a Roman Catholic, of French nahe has had two years' experience in a tionality and in the diplomatic service. commercial traveller, having made a mand, informing Pilar-Durand that he now fulfils all the conditions, having just been baptized in the Catholic faith, been naturalized a Frenchman and assumed a name and the papal title of nobility of marquis, purchased from the Vatican. Moreover, he has been appointed attaché at the Ministry of Foreign Affairs, after passing the necessary examinations for embarking on a diplomatic career. A dozen equally humorous episodes occur in the play, notably when Pilar-Durand, to obtain the decoration of commander of the Legion of Honor, purchases for $1,000,000 a superb painting by Watteau from a New York amateur and presents the masterpiece to the Minister of Fine Arts. The picture, of course, turns out to be a mere copy, but the minister's technical knowledge is so ague that the error passes unnoticed. Pilar at last receives the coveted decoration, but his emotion is so great that he dies of heart fallure. In the third act his assembled friends, admirers, relatives and employes learn with dismay when the will is opened that Pilar has left his entire fortune to the French Academy. "The Golden Calf" made a decided hit. Delicious humor is adroitly embroidered on a love story between Suzanne and Pilar's private secretary. The two principal parts are brilliantly and cleverly acted by Mile, Revonne and Louis Gauthier.
